

Purpose

The Early Admissions Program is designed to offer selected students an opportunity for greater academic challenge and a fuller learning day. Del Mar College provides eligible high school students the opportunity to earn college credits while concurrently working toward a high school diploma.

The Early Admissions Program is designed for high school students who have demonstrated the ability to accept academic challenges and responsibility. Generally, Early Admissions credits are applicable toward career certifications and associate's degrees, and often credit transfers into bachelor's degree requirements.

Credits earned through the Early Admissions Program only count as college credit and cannot be used to fulfill high school graduation requirements.
